

THE HISTORY OF ALVELEY

Cover photograph's from my book "The History of Alveley"

These windows were moved from the Coton Chapel of the Lee family and are now in the tower of Alveley Church

The History of the Parish of Alveley in the county of Shropshire, England, including the townships of Kingsnordley, Astley and Romsley from the documentary and written sources from the earliest times to about 1850. The book is a privately printed limited edition of 500 copies published in 1994 of which there are less than one hundred remaining unsold. The text gives an account of the history of the farms, church and families of the village, including the Lee family, Lords of the manor for several hundred years. The book has 136 pages and has many greyscale maps and several colour photo plates in A4 landscape format.
